The Curtis school building here is being overhauled. Interior painting, decorating ways are taking the place throughout the building of the old frame structures, and other improving touches are being made here and there.

LOOKS LIKE A JOKE.

Alleged Attempt to Forge a Patent to Land in Chicago. A bold but exceedingly stupid attempt to forge a deed for land on the lake front in Chicago has been unearthed. The principals seem to be Capt. George V. Streeter, William H. Cox and Jacob Nine. These men came to Washington last March and tried to file papers, laying claim to the land involved. The general land office would not permit them to file these papers and they returned to Chicago. Some time later one of the three sent and obtained a certified copy of a patent issued in 1837 to Robert Kinzie for 102 29-100 acres "in Palatine land district, now Chicago." Using oxalic acid the alleged forgers re-moved the name of Kinzle wherever it appeared, and then wrote in the names of George W. Streeter and Peter T. Johnston. The name of Grover Cleveland was substituted for that of Martin Van Buren, and that of "Oaks Smith," instead of Hoke Smith, was attached as Secretary of the Interior The Number of Smith, was attached as Secretary of the Interior. The number of acres was changed from 102 20-100 to 186. A description of the land was written, which did not tally with anything on record in the general land office.

The matter was turned over to the Description of Justice and the way to the programment of Justice and the way to the secretary description. partment of Justice and the men are under arrest there. If they are not held there an effort will be made to indict them here

Funeral of Elisha J. Miller-A Sudden

Yesterday was one of the hottest days of the summer, and owing to the extreme heat the congregations in the various churches were not as large as usual. During the day large numbers of people took the electric cars and excursion boats for the river resorts, where cooler air might be found. The day was a very quiet one, and but few people were seen on the streets. There were two streets by the police, both being cases of drunkenness. The thermometer at Creighton's drug store, corner King and Royal streets, reached 102 in the shade. The services at the various mission stations that have been recently established were fairly well attended in the afternoon, and a great interest is being taken in the work.

THINK FLOORS SHOULD BE LAID. What the Coroner's Jury Decided in the Case of Charles Beach. Saturday afternoon Deputy Coroner Glazebrook held an inquest in the case of Charles Beach, the iron worker who was killed by falling while at work on the new post office building Friday. The jury was made up of three carpenters, a cornice maker, a contractor and an undertaker. Several witnesses were examined, including the superintendent and workmen on the new building. It was in evidence that the iron workers do their own scaffolding. The specifications require that the contractors shall furnish their own scaffolding. W. C. Keys, who is an assistant foreman for Thorp & Bond, the iron workers, witnessed the accident. Beach and another workman were putting down the scaffolding, and when he saw the deceased putting down one-inch plank he called his attention to it, and told him it was not safe. Witness noticed him walk on the plank, and noticed the plank when it sagged. In an instant the plank titled, and Beach went through to the bottom. No efficial complaint had ever been made by him of the insecure scaffolding.

William McKee gave similar testimony. Witness considered two-inch plank perfectly safe, but the one-inch plank he thought too light.

J. W. Kinsey, who is superintendent of the work, under the supervising architect of the treasury, also gave testimony. He told of the manner of doing work on the building, and said that in his state (Ohio) the law requires the laying of the floors under the men as the work progresses, and he had suggested that this should be done here. He had suggested it to the supervising architect. Other evidence was heard, and the jury returned the following verdict:

"We believe that the said Charles Beach came to his death through his own carelessness; that the scaffolding on the cornice maker, a contractor and an undertaker. Several witnesses were examined
